Second-hand cars topped the list of popular internet searches in Thailand this year, according to Google Zeitgeist.

The second most searched term in the kingdom was "gold prices" while the third was "Khon Uad Phee", a television programme about supernatural beliefs.

Japanese comic story "Naruto" was the fourth most searched-for term, while enquiries about the weather forecast came in fifth.

The next five most popular searches were "Pee Mak Phra Kanong", Buddhist amulets, "Kuk Kao", job opportunities and Diew 10.

Pee Mak Phra Kanong was the highest grossing film in Thailand this year, Kuk Kao is a popular look thong song and Diew 10 is a show presented by comedian Note Udom Taepanich.

Nelson Mandela, the former South African president who died on Dec 5, topped the global list of popular search terms in 2013.

Paul Walker, the Hollywood actor who starred in the Fast and Furious film franchise and died in car accident on Nov 30 came in second, while searches for iPhone 5s were third.

The next most popular global search terms were Cory Monteith, Harlem Shake, Boston Marathon, Royal Baby, Samsung Galaxy 4, PlayStation 4 and North Korea.
