

<https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/537/01/>

	Countable noun	Uncountable noun
some	There are some Mexicans here.	There is some water on the floor.
any	Do you have any apples?	Do you have any food?
much		They have so much money in the bank. The horse drinks so much water.
many	Many Americans travel to Europe. I collected many sources for my paper.
little		He had little food in the house. When I was in college, there was little money to spare.
few	There are a few doctors in town. He had few reasons for his opinion.

a lot of	A lot of (=many) Americans travel to Europe.	Bill Gates has a lot of (=much) money.
lots of	We got lots of (=many) mosquitoes last summer.	They have lots of (=much) money in the bank. We got lots of (=much) rain last summer.
a little bit of		There is a little bit of pepper in the soup. There is a little bit of snow on the ground.
plenty of	There are plenty of millionaires in Switzerland.	They have plenty of money in the bank.
enough	I have enough books to read.	There is enough money to buy a car.
no	There are no squirrels in the park.	There is no time to finish now.